新聞稿 PRESS RELEASE

An International Conference on "Ancient Chinese Scripts" will be held at The Chinese University of Hong Kong from September 6 to 8, 1983.

The Conference, organized jointly by the Department of Chinese and the Ng Tor-tai Chinese Language Research Centre of the University, will review research and findings in the studies of bone-inscriptions, bronze-inscriptions, inscriptions and writings from Fourth to Second Century B.C. in China, lexicographic literature related to Shuowen Jiezi and inscriptions found on relics recently unearthed. It is believed that presentations at the Conference will shed new lights on Chinese paleographic studies from cultural, philosophical and historical angles.

Up to 40 distinguished scholars from Mainland China, Taiwan and America, together with more than 20 participants from the local academic circle will take part in the Conference.

Dr. Ma Lin, Vice-Chancellor of The Chinese University of Hong Kong, will officiate the Opening Ceremony to be held in the afternoon of September 5, 1983.

Members of the public who wish to participate in the Conference may contact the Ng Tor-tai Chinese Language Research Centre of the University at 0-6331111 Ext. 392.
