新聞稿 PRESS RELEASE

The first Wilson T S Wang International Surgical Symposium will be held at Lecture Theatre II, the Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre from December 8 to 10, 1989. The Symposium is organized by the Department of Surgery of The Chinese University of Hong Kong and is sponsored by the well-known educationist, Mr Wilson T S Wang.

The overall aim of the symposium is to promote surgical education. Through the common language of surgery, surgeons from different parts of the world are brought together to share their experience, exchange ideas, and to identify the challenges ahead.

More than 170 delegates from 26 countries will be attending the symposium. The central theme is head and neck surgery and liver and biliary surgery. Besides medical researchers from Hong Kong, internationally renowned experts from China, Singapore, Sweden, Australia, UK and U S A have been invited to talk about recent advances in their fields. Topics will include state of-the-art management of thyroid cancer, salivary gland cancer, gall stones and pancreatic cancer. Moreover, the modern management of diseases prevalent in Asia, such as liver cancer, nasopharyngeal cancer and recurrent pyogenic cholangitis will also be discussed.

Keynote lectures on surgical education, surgical practice and surgical research will be given by respected educationists from both sides of the Atlantic. They will share their experience in the training of surgeons, surgical practice, surgical research, and the presentation of scientific data.
