NEW CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY PROGRAMMES AT THE CHINESE UNIVERSITY

To meet the rising demand for clinical psychologists, the Departments of Psychology and Psychiatry of The Chinese University of Hong Kong will be offering a joint M.Phil/M.S.Sc. Programme in Clinical Psychology in 1992-93.

According to a survey by the Division of Clinical Psychology, Hong Kong Psychological Society in 1990, there were 12 vacancies amongst the 54 posts of clinical psychologists in government and voluntary agencies. It is also estimated that by 1995, there will be an additional demand for 77 clinical psychologists to work in government departments and voluntary sectors which include Health Services, Hospital Services, Social Welfare Services, Correctional Services and the Police Force. Other careers in clinical psychology include teaching, research and counselling in tertiary institutions, or private practice.

The programmes at the Chinese University will involve coursework, clinical placement and thesis research. Graduates will qualify as clinical psychologists in Hong Kong and their credentials will be recognised by professional bodies.

Application forms are now available at the Graduate School of the Chinese University, and applications for 1992 should be filed before February 29, 1992. For details and admission requirements, please contact the Department of Psychology at 6096501.
