

新聞稿 PRESS RELEASE

The Japan Study Programme of the Centre for Contemporary Asian Studies of The Chinese University of Hong Kong will host an International Conference on the "Taiwan's Economy and Regional Interactions" to be held at the Cho Yiu Conference Hall, University Administration Building on January 16 & 17 (Tuesday & Wednesday).

In the past few years, Taiwan has experienced rapid economic development. Together with South Korea, Hong Kong and Singapore, Taiwan shares the honour of "the Four Dragons", a title in acknowledgement of their excellent economic growth. In addition, Taiwan's foreign trade, investment, economic assistance, and unofficial interactions still keep expanding. In this context, the conference aims at examining the interactions between Taiwan's economic development and the Asia-Pacific Regions and its effect on the development of the Regions and others.

Scholars from China, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, the USA and Hong Kong will present a total of about 20 papers and will discuss the present situation and prospect of the development and competition in the Asia-Pacific Regions from the economic, political, military and cultural points of view.

All interested are welcome to attend. Please call 6952026 for details.
